

Table of Contents

Foreword	3
The President of the Republic of Latvia, Vaira Vīķe-Freiberga	3
The UNDP Resident Representative in Latvia, Gabriele Köhler	4
Introduction	11
Chapter 1	14
Definitions and Dimensions of Human Security
Human security definitions	14
Human development and human security	14
The international context of human security	16
Human security in Latvia	17
Levels of security	18
Security and sense of security	19
Issues of concern within the seven realms of human security	19
Securitability	20
Securitability factors	21
Security strategies	23
Security constellations	24
Summary	26
Chapter 2	27
The Issues
Overview of risk perceptions	27
Perceived personal risks	27
Perceived general risks	27
Health security	29
Economic security	35
Personal security	41
Environmental security	46
Food security	49
Community security	50
Political security	51
Different people, different issues	52
Summary	54

Chapter 3 56
Individuals at Risk and the Manifestations of Insecurity

Individuals at risk	56
High insecurity levels	56
High anxiety levels	59
Compounding insecurity factors	62
Causes, manifestations and consequences of insecurity	63
Trauma	63
Anxiety	64
Abuse and attachment disorders	64
Anger and intolerance	64
Suicide	65
Summary	65

Chapter 4 66
The Individual and Positive Close Relationships as Securitability Factors

Positive close relationships – at the core of individual securitability	66
The role of parent-child attachment in human security	67
Attachment styles in Latvia	68
Support of the family and self-reliance	68
Individual characteristics as securitability factors	71
Self-reliance	71
Life satisfaction	72
Confidence in one’s ability to effect change/Initiative	72
Entrepreneurial spirit	73
Religious faith	74
Sense of belonging to a group or community	74
Increasing the securitability of the individual	76
Summary	79

Chapter 5 80
Social Contact Networks as a Securitability Factor

Definitions and dimensions of social networks and social capital	80
Aspects crucial to the success of networks	81
How social networks generate securitability	81
Advantages of social networks over the individual and government in providing securitability	82
Network participation in Latvia	83
Differences between informal and formal networks as security-enhancing factors	86
The development of formal networks to enhance security and securitability	88
Preconditions for the success of formal networks	88
The role of networks in increasing security in the seven realms	90
Networking enhances other securitability factors	90
The polarization of society in relation to social capital	90
Human security through a sense of community	92
Summary	93

Chapter 6	97
The State and Human Security
The changing role of the State	97
The interplay of politics and policy in the provision of human security	100
Perceptions of the State as a security provider	101
Issues of concern	102
Economic security	102
Health security	106
Community security and family policy	108
Personal security	108
Risk management through international organizations	110
Areas of insecurity concerning the EU	111
The relevance of human security in public policy	114
Summary	115
Conclusions and Recommendations	117
Methodology	123
Appendix: Review of Latvia's Main Human Development Indicators	126
Bibliography	147